1. Overview of Westbrook University Scholarship and Financial Aid Programs

1.1 Institutional Aid Philosophy

Westbrook University's financial aid philosophy rests on three foundational commitments: access, merit recognition, and sustainability. The access commitment is operationalized through the Westbrook Commitment need-based guarantee, introduced for the Fall 2022 entering class, which ensures that domestic students from families with an adjusted gross income of USD 65,000 or below have their demonstrated financial need met in full through grants and work-study, without any loan component. The merit recognition commitment is operationalized through a tiered merit aid program that rewards exceptional academic achievement, leadership, and community contribution across the full spectrum of the entering class. The sustainability commitment requires that the total cost of the institution's financial aid programs, net of endowment distributions and external funding, remains consistent with the Board-approved discount rate target and the institution's long-term financial model.

As of January 2025, the institution administers 847 individual scholarship and fellowship programs, ranging from large institutionally funded merit awards to small donor-funded awards restricted to students from specific geographic areas, academic disciplines, or personal backgrounds. The Scholarship and Fellowship Programs Division is responsible for administering, monitoring, and reporting on all programs within this portfolio, in coordination with the Office of Development and Alumni Relations for endowed programs and with the Office of the Registrar for academic eligibility verification.

1.3 Regulatory and Compliance Framework

The institution's financial aid programs operate within a framework of federal, state, and institutional regulations. The principal federal regulatory requirements are those established by the U.S. Department of Education under Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended, which governs the Federal Pell Grant, Federal Direct Loan, and Federal Work-Study programs. Compliance with Title IV requirements is monitored by the Office of Financial Aid's Compliance and Reporting Unit and is subject to annual audit by the institution's external auditor, currently Deloitte &

Touche LLP, as part of the Single Audit process required under the Uniform Guidance (2 CFR Part 200).

The institution's endowed scholarship programs are additionally subject to the terms of the relevant donor agreements, which in many cases impose restrictions on award eligibility, use of funds, and reporting obligations that supplement or supersede the institution's standard financial aid policies. The Scholarship and Fellowship Programs Division maintains a Donor Agreement Registry (DAR) that tracks the material terms of all endowed scholarship donor agreements and flags any compliance obligations requiring action in the current academic year. The DAR is maintained in the secure document management system under `/FinancialAid/DonorAgreements/Active/` and is accessible only to authorized personnel in the Scholarship and Fellowship Programs Division and the Office of Development and Alumni Relations.

2. Institutional Merit Award Programs — AY 2024–2025

2.1 Presidential Scholars Program

The Presidential Scholars Program is the institution's most prestigious merit award, established in 1987 to recognize exceptional academic achievement, intellectual curiosity, and leadership potential among incoming first-year students. Presidential Scholars are selected by the Admissions Review Committee on the basis of the holistic admissions review process, with Presidential Scholar designation reserved for applicants achieving a holistic score in the range of 22–24 (as described in the reserved admissions criteria maintained in the Office of Undergraduate Admissions). Presidential Scholar status and the associated award amount are communicated to recipients in their admission letter; the holistic score threshold for Presidential Scholar eligibility is not disclosed to recipients or to the public.

For the AY 2024–2025 cohort (Fall 2024 entering class), 187 Presidential Scholars are enrolled, representing 8.9% of the entering class of 2,099. The total disbursement for this cohort in AY 2024–2025 is USD 3,960,400, reflecting an average annual award of USD 21,178.

2.2 Dean's Scholars Program

The Dean's Scholars Program recognizes outstanding academic achievement and intellectual engagement among incoming students achieving a holistic score in the range of 19–21 in the admissions review process. Dean's Scholars receive an annual merit award in the range of USD 15,000–18,500, calibrated to the recipient's financial profile and yield sensitivity as described in the merit aid calibration parameters maintained by the Office of Financial Aid.

For the AY 2024–2025 cohort, 423 Dean's Scholars are enrolled, representing 20.2% of the entering class. The total disbursement for this cohort in AY 2024–2025 is USD 7,183,200, reflecting an average annual award of USD 16,984.

Dean's Scholars are subject to the same renewal conditions as Presidential Scholars with respect to GPA (public threshold 3.50; internal monitoring threshold 3.60), enrollment status, and academic integrity. The community engagement requirement for Dean's Scholars is 10 hours per semester, compared to 20 hours for Presidential Scholars. As with the Presidential Scholars Program, the community engagement requirement is not disclosed in the public-facing award letter and is enforced through the annual renewal certification process.

2.3 Merit Award Program

The Merit Award Program is the institution's broadest merit recognition program, covering applicants achieving holistic scores in the range of 16–18. Merit Award recipients receive annual awards in the range of USD 8,000–14,000, calibrated to financial profile and yield sensitivity. For the AY 2024–2025 cohort, 1,247 Merit Award recipients are enrolled, representing 59.4% of all merit aid recipients. The total disbursement for this cohort in AY 2024–2025 is USD 14,382,600, reflecting an average annual award of USD 11,533.

Merit Award recipients are subject to a cumulative GPA renewal condition of 3.50 (publicly disclosed), with no internal monitoring threshold above the public threshold. Enrollment and academic integrity conditions apply as for other merit programs.

2.4 Access Grant Supplement Program

The Access Grant Supplement Program provides supplemental merit-adjacent awards of USD 3,000–6,000 per year to Pell-eligible students receiving institutional need-based aid, to reduce the loan and work-study components of their financial aid package. This program is not disclosed as a distinct merit award in public-facing materials; recipients receive the supplement as an addition to their need-based institutional grant award. For AY 2024–2025, 1,084 students received Access Grant Supplements, with a total disbursement of USD 3,217,000.

3. Need-Based Aid — Westbrook Commitment Program

3.1 Program Overview and Eligibility

The Westbrook Commitment guarantees that domestic students from families with AGI of USD 65,000 or below will have their demonstrated financial need met in full through a combination of institutional grants and Federal Work-Study, with no loan component. Students from families with AGI between USD 65,001 and USD 100,000 receive a financial aid package in which the loan component does not exceed USD 3,500 per year. These thresholds are publicly disclosed.

For AY 2024–2025, 3,018 students are receiving need-based institutional grants under the Westbrook Commitment, with a total disbursement of USD 34,217,000. The average institutional grant for Westbrook Commitment recipients is USD 11,340 per year, and the average total financial aid package (including federal aid and work-study) is USD 38,720 per year.

3.2 Annual Recertification Process

Westbrook Commitment recipients are required to file the FAFSA annually and to complete the institution's Westbrook Financial Aid Recertification Form (WFARF) by 15 March of each year. The WFARF requires disclosure of any material changes in the family's financial situation since the previous FAFSA filing, including changes in household income, household size, other family members in college, and assets. Failure to complete the recertification process by the deadline results in automatic suspension of the institutional grant component of the financial aid package pending completion, with a grace period of 30 days before formal action is initiated.

3.3 Financial Need Verification

A random sample of 20% of Westbrook Commitment recipients is selected annually for full financial need verification, in accordance with the institution's Verification Policy and federal Verification requirements under 34 CFR Part 668. Selected students are required to submit tax transcripts, verification of household size, and other supporting documentation within 30 days of selection. Students who fail to complete verification within the required timeframe are suspended from institutional grant disbursement pending completion.

4. Selected Endowed Scholarship Programs — Detailed Profiles

The following section provides detailed profiles of ten selected endowed scholarship programs representing a cross-section of the institution's endowed scholarship portfolio by fund size, donor type, eligibility criteria, and compliance complexity. Merit Award Program	USD 14,380,000	USD 7,191,300	USD 14,382,600	+USD 2,600
Access Grant Supplement	USD 3,217,000	USD 1,608,500	USD 3,217,000	—
Westbrook Commitment	USD 34,000,000	USD 17,108,500	USD 34,217,000	+USD 217,000

Total institutional aid	USD 63,980,000	USD 31,892,800	USD 64,200,200	+USD 220,200

The projected full-year institutional aid disbursement of USD 64,200,200 is approximately USD 220,200 above the approved budget, driven primarily by higher-than-projected Westbrook Commitment disbursements resulting from a slightly higher proportion of Pell-eligible students in the Fall 2024 entering class than modeled. This variance is within the 1% tolerance established in the Office of Financial Aid's budget management policy and does not require supplemental budget authorization. The Associate Dean for Financial Aid will monitor disbursement trends and report to the Provost's Office if the projected variance increases beyond the 1% tolerance threshold.

7.2 Endowment Fund Performance

The institution's scholarship endowment funds are managed by the Office of Investment Management under the oversight of the Investment Committee of the Board of Trustees. The total value of scholarship endowment funds as of 31 December 2024 is USD 487,340,000, representing an increase of 11.2% over the prior year-end value of USD 438,250,000. The increase reflects both positive investment returns (net return of 9.8% for calendar year 2024, against the Investment Policy Statement benchmark of 7.5%) and new endowment contributions received during the year. The endowment distribution rate of 4.5% applied to all scholarship endowment funds is consistent with the Board-approved spending policy and is designed to preserve the long-term real value of the endowment corpus.
